

Abstract Of The Disclosure

A device for waking users of a bus system, wherein a detection means, in particular a counter, is provided, which detects at least one predefined signal feature of the signals transmitted on the bus system and initiates the further wake-up procedure 5 once a predefinable number with respect to the signal feature has been reached.